Beaming to you from the 21st Century is this digitally transmitted comic. The red light will glow if you exist in an era that is technologically advanced enough to view the Holo-Images. If not you will have to turn the pages by hand!

Manual Instructions: Grip the bottom right hand corner of the flat page between your thumb and forefinger. Lift and fold page over to left. Now, using your eyes, read the text on the page - the computer voice will also be off-line.

POWER LIGHT

Dexter's idea of having fun involves hours of studying hard and making wild experiments! He's looking forward to the day when he can go to University and (you guessed it) spend hours studying hard and making wild experiments!

Johnny Bravo's mum has a vast amount of fun things that she absolutely loves. There's shopping for shoes, shopping for clothes, shopping through shopping catalogues, shopping at shopping malls during shopping sales...etc, etc, etc...

Top Cat and his gang just love to paaartay! But if you've ever heard a pack of cats having fun, cover your ears!

4 Ways To HAVE FUN!

Fun is an odd little word! What you have to remember is, one Toon's fun is another Toon's nightmare!

Cow thinks fun is a hot, soapy bath after a hard day saving the World. Well, she is only 7!

Cow & Chicken Goodies to be Won!

Have we got a bumper of a Cow and Chicken competition for you! There's never a dull moment with those surreal siblings, the funny girl cow and big brother chicken who live in the suburbs with their human parents. But what is a kid supposed to do when, horror of horrors, Cow and Chicken aren't showing? Try our mini quiz to see if you are a 100% Cow and Chicken fan:

Idea No. 1. Sit and dream about watching Cow and Chicken?

Idea No. 2. Play at being Cow and Chicken?

Idea No. 3. Enter our fab competition to try and win loads of fab Cow and Chicken goodies?!

Yep, if you answered number 3 you're crazy for Cow and Chicken!

Enter our competition and try and win one of these tasty treats that'll make your friends go green!

Available from selected branches of Birthdays and Tesco, in these cooler than cool Cow and Chicken stationery goody bags you'll find:

- A super-organised personal organiser to make sure that you never miss a Cow and Chicken episode again! Arrange your life Cow and Chicken style!
- A wacky Cow and Chicken style CD case to carry all your favourite tracks around in!
- A zany zip-up Cow and Chicken pencil case full of colourful creative tools for hours of fun drawing those crazy characters!

Even better than a pork and tattie buttie!

We've got 25 goody bags to give away to the lucky Cow and Chicken fans who can answer this question:

In the cartoon, when Chicken is in trouble, who usually comes to the rescue?

- a) Red
- b) Mum
- c) Supercow

There are piles more Cow and Chicken goodies to add to your collection, including wacky character backpacks and Full O'Beans cuddly beanies! Wanna know more? Ring 0181 463 8500 for more info on where to buy goodies!

Write your answer together with your name, age and address on a postcard or stuck-down envelope, stick on a stamp and send it to:

What are little girls made of?

Professor Utonium always wanted to create the perfect little girl. But when his experiments with Formula X went crazy, he got three for the price of one! Enter the Powerpuff girls!

There's Blossom, the natural leader, with just a pinch of bossiness!

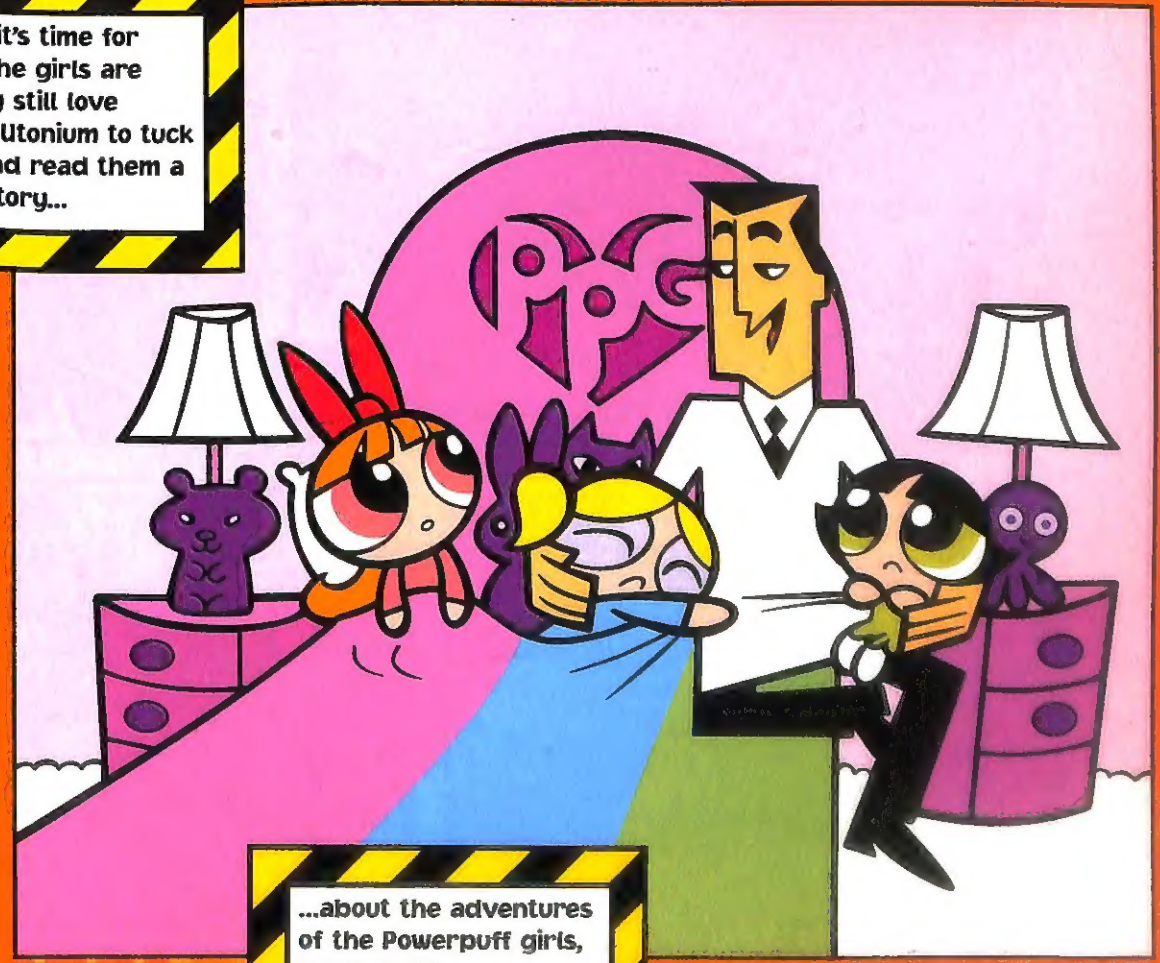

There's Bubbles, the baby of the bunch. She'll do anything to be loved, 'kay?!

There's Buttercup, the Powerpuff with attitude. Watch out!

They all fight together as the Powerpuff Girls, to save the world before bedtime! So watch out, bad guys, you're in for a fight!

But when it's time for bed and the girls are tired, they still love Professor Utonium to tuck them in and read them a bedtime story...

...about the adventures of the Powerpuff girls, what else?!

June/July!

WHAT A FINE DAY FOR A COMP!

Catch up with the chemical capers of the boy with his very own bedroom-laboratory, Dexter, showing on the Random Toon Generator only on Cartoon Network! Smashing scientific barriers at the press of a button and wiping out molecular mysteries at a whim are everyday child's play to Dexter. His well planned experiments go off the boil though when big sis Dee Dee is around and the catalyst for the chaotic catastrophes which erupt into full blown adventure.

This issue we're giving away a prize that contains that special x-factor! A prize that defies even science! Five lucky readers who enter our competition will each win a goody bag containing a Dexter's Laboratory style backpack and beach towel, a snazzily designed Cartoon Network watch and also a Cartoon Network T-shirt! Enough to make even Mandark go an emerald shade of green!

All you have to do is simply write the answer to the competition question on a postcard or stuck-down envelope and send it to the address below.

A-Z OF SMASH TENNIS

You cannot be serious! Go smashing tennis the Cartoon Network way cos' there's an alphabet full of toon fun to be had throughout Wimbledon on Saturday June 26th & Sunday June 27th. Between 12 noon and 4.30pm there's a tennis linked toon for every letter in the alphabet, with the classic Tom and Jerry episode "Quiet Please" standing for the letter Q. Ton's of top toon tennis talent served for your eyes only with loads of RACKET MAYHEM ON SCREEN!

The only way to stay cool in the Summer AfterToons...

SCORCHIO!!!

The only way to describe the sizzling line-up on Cartoon Network this summer as all the groovy Network gang hang out for tons of top-toon fun in the sun. Chill with Dexter, Johnny, the Eddi's and the rest of the crew from Monday 19th July. There's new shows in the morning and Summer AfterToons bringing Sandwich Marathons of top shows and dreamy weekend evenings of toon movies and premiers. Marvel at that pint size genius Dexter, be udderly astounded by those Cow and Chicken sibling rivals and find out if the meaning of life really can be found in a Jaw Breaker! And you're never more than half an hour away from another hot top toon treat as the cartoon sensations keep on comin' every weekday from 12pm until 7'.

NEW SERIES!

Start the day the very best way - with a new toon as Cartoon Network launch a brand new fantastic show especially for the summer. Flying Rhino Junior High school is not as ordinary as it may first appear. Earl P. Sidebottom is our guy, a squeaky clean straight A student who's school-life was ruined when he received his first ever D grade.

From the murky glooms of the school basement and with the aid of his computer and oversized brain he plots and plans revenge on all. Freak weather, insect plagues and dinosaur attacks are all on the menu of chaotic confusion. Don't miss the first episode which is showing from Monday July 19th from 7:30!

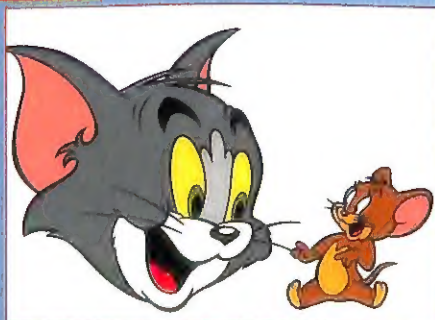

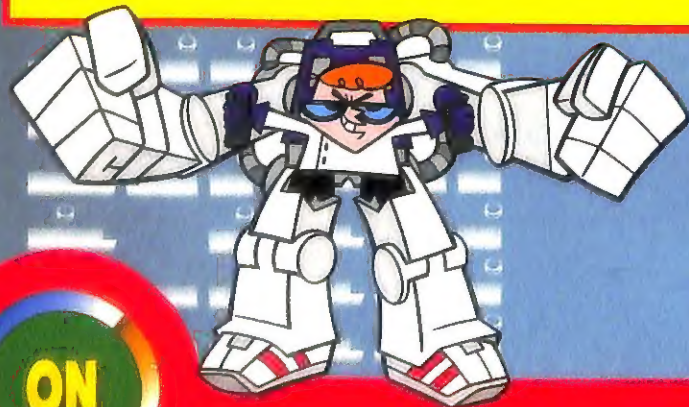

DEXTER'S LABORATORY™ fast facts!

Get fired up for some explosive chemical facts about the pint sized professor who's fired up for Physics...

1. Dexter doesn't have a girlfriend, (or female companion as he prefers to call her) but he does have a crush on his babysitter Lisa, who he attempts to impress with his extensive, excessive knowledge.
2. Inside his laboratory Dexter keeps a favourite monkey, which, when Dexter isn't looking, transforms into a superpowered, crime-crushing primate who sets out to save the universe in his own series Dial M For Monkey.
3. Dexter lives by his all-time favourite ruling philosophy "There is nothing that a laboratory cannot do".
4. Pint sized professor Dexter was a child prodigy at birth 7 years ago and is mentally light years ahead of his physical body.

5. Often wondered if Dexter does have real hands, one never sees him without his uniform of blue scientific gloves, snazzy zip-up black boots and stripy boxer shorts!
6. Along with television documentaries, Dexter likes to watch "The Sky at Night" and the scientific programmes of "Open University" which he video tapes because they are shown after his bedtime.

More fun than a poke in the eye with a pointed stick!

Ever since the dawn of civilisation, every different culture has structured time according to their beliefs. The Romans, for example, believed that the stars ruled life on Earth and invented their calendar to tie in with God's timetable. They created the "Roman Year" which lasted ten months and began with March. (Well, January and February were always boring months anyway!). But King Numa Pompilio I added two months, January and February, bringing the year to a total of 355 days. Centuries later, the emperor Julius Caesar decided to claim the calendar, renaming it "Julian" (in his honour, of course). The bizarre thing was that as the centuries passed, it became very difficult to synchronize the months with the movement of the Sun. This got the ancient scientists scratching their heads for a while.

This bizarre calendar was used until the 16th century when Pope Gregory, (who was a clever clogs with numbers), decided to correct the old version with twelve months of 30 and 31 days, starting in January and finishing in December. Even today this is the method most people use. The occasional Roman still ends up taking his Summer hols in the middle of winter, though!

The Inventors of Time!

TELLING THE TIME

Unlike the mix up with the calendar, everyone on the planet shares the same length of day, which is made up of 24 hours. But not all the clocks in the world are identical nor give the same hour at the same time. Why's that, we hear you cry? Well, almost one hundred years ago, all the world's scientists met in the little town of Greenwich, in England, to fix the time in all areas of the world. They decided to divide the world into 24 segments, or hour zones which are separated by imaginary lines called meridians and corresponded to the Greenwich Mean Time, (hour 0) commonly known as G.M.T. All clocks throughout the world were then synchronized to this hour. Dead clever, eh?

CUCKOO CLOCKS

Clock makers often created cuckoo clocks. These worked by tiny gears rotating the hands. The hour would be announced by a bird popping out of the clock. Of course, if you're unlucky something else might pop out!

TWO IN ONE

In America the Aztecs and the Mayans were big fans of Astronomy, the study of the stars. They observed the sky from the tops of their pyramids, allowing them to measure the passage of time with great accuracy.

Using this information, they devised a 'two in one' calendar, which was carved into a circular slab of rock called The Sun Stone.

The Sun Stone had a different sign for each year, month and day. Carved on one side, there were 18 months which were made up of 20 days each. On the other side, were 20 months made up of 13 days each. Together they were used as a primitive 'diary' for telling when it was the right time to seed, harvest and also to predict the future! This is still used today in some corners of Central America.

WATCH OUT!

In the twentieth century, technology made the idea of portable clocks possible! Now, with the computer chip, perhaps too many functions can be crammed into the humble wrist watch!

STONE AGE

The hourglass was one of the first ways of measuring time. An hourglass is fine sand inside two crystal glasses joined at the centre. As sand grains fell from one container to the other, you could time the boiling of your Brontosaurus egg!

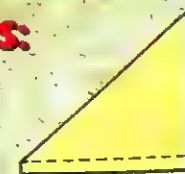

How to make a Sun Dial

The most primitive models of sun dials consisted of a wooden stake planted in the ground. A stone version was devised by the Babylonians 4,000 years ago, the design of which was copied and improved by the Egyptians, the Greeks and the Romans. This was still used into the 18th century!

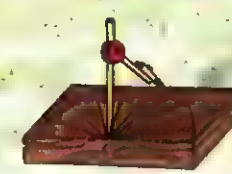

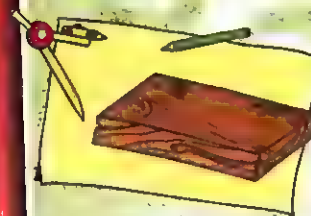

REQUIREMENTS:

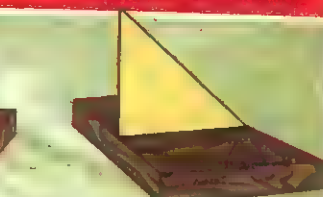

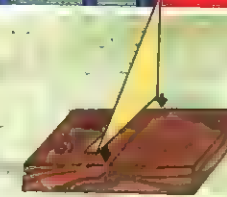

A piece of wood, a compass, a thick piece of card, a pair of scissors, glue, a pencil.

1. Cut out a triangular piece of card with both sides measuring 30 centimetres. Make sure that you leave a fold on one side for sticking the triangle onto the wood. The angle of the corner triangle should be 90 degrees.

2. Taking a compass, draw a semi-circle of 30 centimetres radius on the piece of wood. Then, divide each semi-circle into five parts with a line and number from 1 to 6. Stick the cardboard onto the wood as shown in the picture.

3. Place the clock outside in a place where the highest part of the triangle is pointing towards the North.

HOW DOES IT WORK!

Throughout the day, the shaded area will advance towards the South as the Sun changes position in the sky. At 12 o'clock in the afternoon, there will be no shadow. Check the accuracy of your sun dial with your watch!

and join in all the fun and games when it comes to a town near you.

Check Toon Text page 361 to see when it's coming to your town.

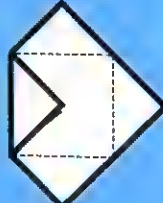

HERE'S HOW TO MAKE YOUR OWN CHICKY GAME TO PLAY WITH YOUR FRIENDS.

How to make your Chicky Game

Fold in the four corners to point 'A'

Turn the game over and fold the four corners in towards the centre as done for 'A'

Fold the square in half

Now you are ready to play the Chicky game.

How to play

- Hold the game between your thumbs and first fingers. Ask your friend to choose one of the numbers on the outside of the game - one, two, three, four?
- Open and close the game spelling out the number they have chosen, for example open and close it five times if they choose three, once for 't', once for 'h' etc.
- Open up the game piece so that your friend can see four of the food items. Ask them to choose one.
- Now open and close the game piece spelling out the name the have chosen. For example if they choose Burger, open and close it six times, one for 'B', one for 'u' etc.
- Now ask them to choose another food item.
- Open up that flap and reveal the Chicky Says message. Get your friend to act out the instructions.
